Fort Young in Dominica Joins Guy Harvey Outpost Resorts as an Expedition Property

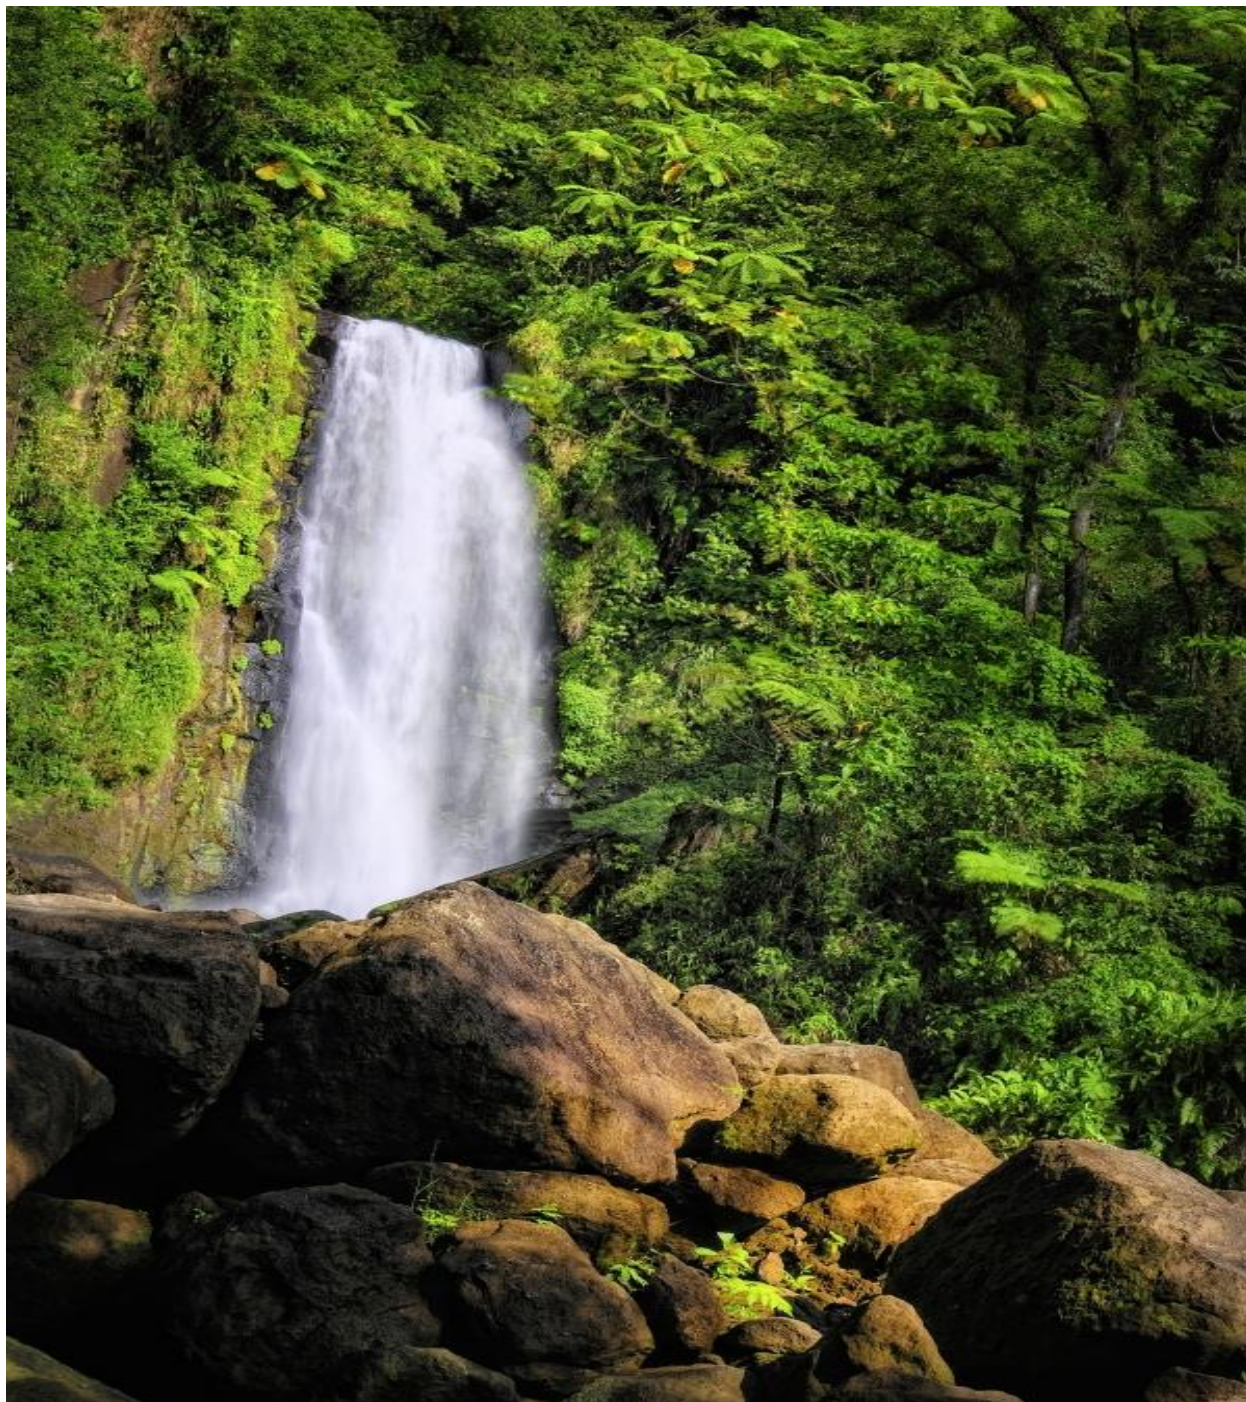

FORT LAUDERDALE, FL— JANUARY 24, 2014 –Dominica’s premier hotel, Fort Young, has joined the Expedition Collection of Guy Harvey Outpost Resorts. The announcement was made today by Mark Ellert, President of Guy Harvey Outpost Resorts.

A recipient of Trip Advisor’s highly prestigious “Award of Excellence”, the historic Fort Young Hotel, www.fortyounghotel.com, in Dominica’s Capital, Roseau, becomes the seventh member of the elite Expedition Collection of Guy Harvey’s rapidly growing Outpost system, which currently covers Florida, the Caribbean, Mexico and the Galapagos Islands.

Nestled on a cliff overlooking the Caribbean Sea and cradled in the beauty of Dominica’s mountainous landscape, Fort Young’s unique architecture and rich history of the its original and oceanfront rooms provides a combination of old world charm and spacious modern luxury.

The hotel, which features 71 guest rooms and suites, also offers guests top-of-class diving, eco-trekking over rivers, valleys and mountains and a wide range of on-the-water adventure activities including river tubing and expedition kayaking. Hotel reservations can be made through Sales@GuyHarveyOutpost.com or visiting www.GuyHarveyOutpost.com

“Dominica is known as the ‘Nature Island’ for good reason”, notes Ellert. “Having an Outpost here is a strategic complement to our presence in the Galapagos. The eco-system here is equally unique in its natural diversity, all-around adventure and spectacular diving. Like the Galapagos, the waters around Dominica are protected marine reserve areas. “

Legendary scuba diver Neal Watson, recently named Director of Dive Operations for Outpost, was the driving force behind the new affiliation. “Dominica offers breath-taking experiences of every kind - from walls to reefs, encounters with sperm whales and dolphins, to swimming thru the bubbles of underwater volcanic fissures. All of this comes with practically unlimited visibility that makes for remarkable underwater photography,” cites Watson. “It’s the dive capital of the Eastern Caribbean, period, stop.”

Adds Ellert, “Outpost is about adventure with authenticity. Dominica is an unblemished tropical outpost with enough amazing adventures to fill up several vacations.”

An English speaking island, Dominica (pronounced “Dom-in-eeek-a”) is wedged between the French speaking islands of Guadeloupe and Martinique. In its entirety, Dominica is a World Heritage Site, the only such site in the Central Caribbean. Dominica is the largest and most mountainous of the Leeward Islands. The island’s name is ascribed to the day of the week on which Christopher Columbus discovered Dominica in November, 1493.
