

Jason Arnold is an award-winning Florida-based photographer. A third generation commercial fisherman, Arnold learned to respect marine wildlife at a very young age. His passion for the sea continued as he spent his formative years as a professional surfer. The photos he took during his years as a surfer developed into a profession, which is how Jason was introduced to the field of photography.

After graduating from the Art Institute with a BA degree in Commercial Photography, Arnold's talent was recognized by some of the most well-known sports and celebrity photographers. He spent many years shooting professionally for the NFL, NBA, NHL, MLB and other professional sports leagues. In addition to action photography, Arnold is also well-known for his iconic portraits of Pro athletes. Some of his celebrity portraits include: Tiger Woods, LeBron James, Shaquille O'Neal, Michael Phelps and many more.

While the world of sports and celebrity photography was action-packed, Jason never lost his attachment to the sea. He began shooting underwater images as a side project, but this soon became his passion. Within six months, he was showcasing his photographs at Bass Pro Shop and the top magazines in the fishing industry were using his photographs. Arnold's underwater hobby soon developed into the successful company, Jason Arnold Underwater.

Today, Jason Arnold's underwater photography is regularly featured in Sport Fishing Magazine, Florida Sport Fishing and other top magazines in the outdoor industry. He has licensing deals with a variety of companies, such as Hoo-Rag and Cressi. Arnold is also a contract photographer for Getty images and The New York Times and is the go-to commercial photographer for companies in the boating, fishing, diving and outdoor industries. Some of his clients include: Cressi Dive Gear, Invincible Boats, Berkeley, Ocean Kayaks, Eagle Claw, Okuma, Yo Zuri, Shimano Jand many more.
