Tradewinds Sandpiper Suites

TradeWinds Beach Resort is teaming up with Guy Harvey, one of the world's most recognized and celebrated marine wildlife artists, to create a new resort brand. The 211-room beachfront TradeWinds Sandpiper Suites in St. Pete Beach, Fla., is undergoing a $3 million transformation and will reopen next year as the first Guy Harvey Outpost in the U.S. "Through our partnership with Guy Harvey, we are looking forward to furthering our commitment to conservation and education while continuing to provide extensive recreational options for our guests," says Keith Overton, president of TradeWinds Island Resorts. The namesake signature will be incorporated throughout the public spaces and meeting space in the hotel, and a Guy Harvey decor theme will be used in the resort's 211 updated guest rooms. An upscale, marine-themed Guy Harvey restaurant will also be added.
